

Lake and Jungle temple Tour

Kompong Khleang with Beng Mealea

One of the largest settlements on the Tonle Sap Lake; Kompong Khleang has over 20,000 people. It is a mixed community of fishermen and traders largely untouched by tourism. We Combine this Lake tour with the Fabulous Jungle Temple Of Beng Mealea.

We approach the village by road, via Damdek and or by boat in the flood season (August to February) Kompong Khleang is at its most spectacular at low water, when the houses tower up to ten metres above the river. At high Water the atmosphere changes markedly. The Roads become canals, so we can enjoy cruising between the houses in this "Venice" of South east Asia.

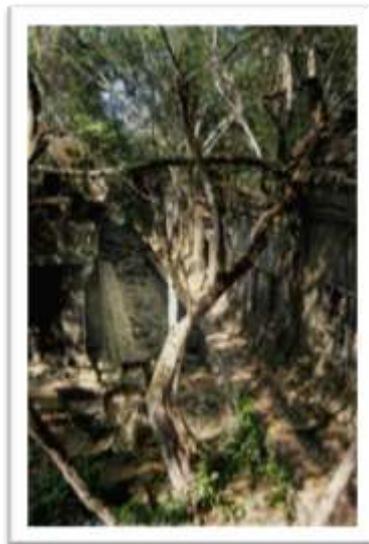

A feature of this tour is our visit to the floating fish market, where we meet the friendly fishermen and buy fresh fish for our lunch. We have a fish lunch at the stilt house of our boatmen and drive in just over one hour to; Beng Mealea

Beng Mealea is a fabulous place for those who want to see a vast and spectacular jungle temple in its raw un-restored state. Set within a moat of over 1 Sq Km; this temple is the most mysterious of all. Cloaked in vegetation with huge trees growing out of the ruins. Beng Mealea looks much as it did when first discovered.

The combination of Beng Mealea and Kompong Khleang is one of our most popular tours. If you only have time for one of our tours; take this one: It's a fantastic day!
